The JUNIATA COLLEGE BULLETIN is published five times per year (October, November, December, March and June). Second Class Postage paid at Huntingdon, Pa. 16652. Send Form 3579 to Juniata College, 17th and Moore Streets, Huntingdon, Pa. 16652.

Juniata College is an independent, privately supported, coeducational institution committed to providing a liberal arts education to qualified students regardless of sex, race, religion, creed, color or handicap. Its policies comply with requirements of Title VII of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, and all other applicable federal, state and local statutes, regulations and guidelines.

FROM THE EDITOR: In this, the initial Annual Report of Juniata's second century, we take our traditional two-way look at the College. With Dr. Binder's President's Report, we look back at the progress made during our 101st year. This progress, of course, would not have been possible without the support of those listed in our latest Report of Gifts. It is from a healthy "State of the College," then, that we look ahead to our 102nd year. And here we move from progress to promise, the promise evinced by strong leadership, much of which is included in our newest Leadership Directory.

In this year's Report, however, we take an additional—and challenging—look ahead with "Beyond 2000—Utopia or Nightmare?", an address by Dr. J. Peter Trexler, professor of geology. "Beyond 2000" launched a new program at the College last spring: an address each year by the Beachley Distinguished Professor. If Dr. Trexler's remarks are an indication, the series of addresses is a brilliant new idea.

A word about our cover: it's a section of a photo (of students on "The Cliffs") now widely familiar in admissions circles. It appeared on the covers of last year's Catalog and Viewbook and was featured on last year's recruitment poster. On the latter piece it appeared with the wording, "Teaching people not what to think, but how to think." We thought our own people would like to see it, and we thought the spirit of contemplation appropriate for this publication.

RESIDENT'S REPORT

It is a privilege to submit this annual report to you, Juniata's several constituencies. As I reviewed the past year in preparation for this report, it became obvious to me that Juniata's star definitely has been rising. Financial support has been outstanding, our liberal arts program continues to improve and expand, and our students and alumni continue to reflect great credit upon their alma mater. As we did last year, we open this—our 102nd year—in good spirits, with high campus morale and with eagerness for the job ahead.

ADMISSIONS

At the outset of the current academic year, the registrar reported 1120 students. There are 387 new students, 36 of whom are transfers from two- and four-year colleges. Perhaps more importantly, however, the College Board scores of the freshman class have remained consistently above the national averages. The combined average for an entering freshman was 1014, which is well above the declining national mark. Forty-nine percent of the freshmen ranked in the upper 20 percent of their high school classes, and among these students are two National Merit Scholars, eight Brumbaugh-Ellis Scholars and 17 Alumni Annual Support Fund Scholars.

Inquiries about the College increased by 17 percent over inquiries the previous year, applications remaining constant. A total of 460 high schools were visited and Juniata was represented at 77 "College Nights" and eight national College Fairs.

The admissions staff, the student services office, faculty, alumni and friends are to be congratulated on their efforts in bringing an excellent class to campus.

Looking at the entire student body, 75 percent of our students are from Pennsylvania, 13 percent from New Jersey and six percent from Maryland. A total of 18 states and nine foreign countries are represented. The percentage breakdown for Pennsylvania includes the following: Blair, 10.7; Montgomery, 9.7; Huntingdon, 9.1; Allegheny, 6.9; York, 4.7; Cumberland, 4.4; Lancaster, 4.1; Cambria, 4.0; and others 46.4.

CAREER PLANNING AND PLACEMENT

Student response to the Placement Center has been dramatic. During the past year student contacts totaled 7,280; there were 1,118 counseling interviews (which lasted a minimum of 30 minutes each); 97 two-hour Job Strategy Seminars and 98 hour-long Resume Preparation Seminars. Total prospective employer correspondence reached 780. Students also used the Human Interaction Laboratory, with its audio-video playback, in order to observe their performance during simulated interview situations.

Resumes for 121 seniors appeared in the first (1977) edition of Placement Profiles, which was mailed to more than 250 prospective employers. Some 100 new seniors are expected to participate in Placement Profiles 1978.

Another highlight of the year was our first Career Fair, held in April. More than 50 alumni and friends of the college spent four hours meeting with students who indicated vocational interest in their areas of expertise. It has been estimated that more than 900 students participated in Career Fair '77.

Current information on recent graduates indicates the following: 10 were admitted to law school, 24 to health professions schools, six to graduate programs in geology, and 29 to other graduate or professional schools. Over 80 percent of those registering with the Placement Service were employed as of Sept. 1. It should also be noted that all secondary and elementary education majors who registered with the service are employed.

ACADEMIC AFFAIRS

New appointments for the 1977-78 academic year: Robert W. Boling, M.B.A.—instructor in economics and business administration; Janet F. Cobelli, M.Ed.—instructor in early childhood education; Edward F. Kaminsky, M.B.A., C.P.A.—assistant professor of economics and business administration; William R. Rhodes, Jr., M.S.—instructor in biology; Alfred Traverse, Ph.D.—adjunct professor of geobiology (part-time); Chad Walsh, Ph.D.—J. Omar Good Visiting Distinguished Professor of Evangelical Christianity and professor of English and religion; and Jeffrey R. Williams, M.S.—instructor in geology.

Notable Faculty Activity: Lynne I. Goodstein, assistant professor of psychology, received her doctoral degree from the City University of New York and Max N. Heller, associate professor of mathematics, received his second master's degree from the Pennsylvania State University. Dr. C. Samuel Calian, last year's Good Professor, published a book, Today's Pastor in Tomorrow's World, and Jack Troy, assistant professor of art, authored Salt-Glazed Ceramics. Dr. Earl C. Kaylor's Truth Sets Free: Centennial History of Juniata College will be available this fall.

Also, the National Science Foundation has awarded a grant of more than $51,000 to Dr. James L. Gooch, associate professor of biology, for a two-year continuation of his research on stream invertebrates.

Dr. Paul D. Schettler, Jr., Jacob H. and Rachel Brumbaugh Professor of Chemistry, is continuing his gas shale research with a $45,000 federal grant for Oct. 1, 1977, through March 31, 1978. He is expecting to receive another $35,000 to continue the project from April 1 through Sept. 30 of next year.

Graduation Requirements: In order to prepare for the modified graduation requirements for the classes of 1981 and beyond, the faculty has been making initial plans for developing interdisciplinary courses. During the past summer, five pairs of faculty members received grants from the National Endowment for the Humanities to develop syllabi and content for these new units, the first of which will be offered this academic year. Those pairs working on courses were: Paul M. Heberling and Dr. Richard E. Hunter; Dr.

Martin Clark and George T. Dolnikowski; Elizabeth E. Cherry and Dr. Dale L. Wampler; Janet R. Lewis and Lee G. Nollau; and D. Bruce Davis and William L. Hofelt, Jr. The interdisciplinary units will be team-taught by one member of the humanities faculty and another person from the social sciences or natural sciences faculties.

Continuing Education: Directed by Dr. Duane F. Stroman, the continuing education program served more than four times as many persons in the 1976-77 academic year as in the previous year. Eleven courses were taught in 1975-76, while 26 were taught this year. Similarly, total enrollment was 343 compared to 79 last year. New to the 1977-78 program is a business management certification program for present and potential supervisors in business and industry.

J. Omar Good Professorship: Dr. Chad Walsh, professor of English and writer-in-residence at Beloit (Wisc.) College, succeeds Dr. C. Samuel Calian as the J. Omar Good Visiting Distinguished Professor of Evangelical Christianity. A theologian, poet and ordained Episcopal priest, Dr. Walsh will teach the following courses during the 1977-78 year: "Basic Christian Beliefs" (fall term), "C.S. Lewis: Apostle to the Unchurched" (winter) and "Fiction: From Utopia to Nightmare" (spring).

Direct Transfer Agreements: During the past year Juniata initiated two direct transfer programs and one undergraduate-professional program with cooperating institutions. The direct transfer agreements concern associate degree graduates from Mount Aloysius Junior College of Cresson and Wesley College of Dover, Del. These students will receive automatic junior class standing providing they meet certain requirements set by the institutions. The other agreement, with the Pennsylvania College of Podiatric Medicine, Philadelphia, is for a joint undergraduate-professional program in podiatric medicine. It provides for a seven-year accelerated program of study, three years of which will be spent at Juniata and four at the medical school. Students who successfully complete the program will receive both the doctor of podiatric medicine degree and the bachelor of science degree from Juniata. Although Juniata has accelerated programs in other fields, this is the first such program for physician training.

Early Childhood Center: The new Early Childhood Education Center had a strong first-year program with an average of 27 children from the local community participating each term. More than 90 Juniata students enrolled in courses which used the center as a teaching laboratory, and a college student was present at the center at every hour of the day.

Some 18 Juniata students have indicated interest in pursuing a program in early childhood education. In order to pursue accreditation this year, two full-time persons have been appointed in the early childhood and elementary programs. Four new courses will be offered in this area.

Religious Education: The education and religion departments have jointly developed a new program in religious education. Preliminary indications are that Juniata's program will be unique among undergraduate institutions, will provide opportunities which even some graduate schools do not, and will prepare students for seminaries and graduate schools, as well as for employment opportunities.

Raystown Lake Field Station: Since its creation in early 1976, the field station has been the setting for a wide-ranging variety of projects in biology, chemistry, geology, anthropology and social studies. Most of the work so far has focused on environmental subjects and the ecological structure of the region. Studies have included in-depth looks at a host of aquatic species, algae, plankton and fish; on-shore plants and grasses; the wildlife of the area; and the soils and the waters.

CAMPUS ACTIVITIES

Athletics: Intercollegiate, club and intramural sports continue to be a major and growing part of our activities program. Last year, Juniata's 11 varsity teams managed eight winning seasons. Overall they picked up 68 victories, 55 losses and two ties. The final records for each team were:

Football	6- 3-0
Cross Country	6- 4-0
Field Hockey	6- 5-0

Men's Basketball	12-10-0
Wrestling	5- 7-1
Women's Basketball	6- 6-0
Track and Field	3- 1-0
Men's Tennis	3- 5-0
Golf	6- 4-0
Baseball	12- 8-1
Women's Tennis	3- 2-0

Another large number of students participated in the college's five club sports—ice hockey, rugby, judo, lacrosse and women's volleyball (Please note: women's volleyball became an intercollegiate varsity sport this fall). Club sports are non-intercollegiate teams that compete with other clubs organized privately or at other colleges. Of particular note is the fact that the Judo Club was Eastern United States Collegiate Champion and participated in the U.S. National Championship in San Jose, Calif. Two of the club members finished fifth nationally at San Jose.

Approximately 680 different students, representing 66 percent of the student body, participated in one or more of the college's intramural sports: touch football, powderpuff football, six-man soccer, softball and tennis in the fall; basketball, volleyball, team handball, power handball and skiing in the winter; and softball and soccer in the spring.

BUSINESS AFFAIRS AND PHYSICAL PLANT

During the past year highest priority was given to improving the college's effectiveness in three major areas: physical plant operations and maintenance, budgeting processes and personnel services.

Considerable progress was made with respect to the maintenance of building exteriors, general grounds care and follow-up on individual requests for service. A variety of conservation efforts were also initiated on campus. The maintenance staff has been installing "phantom lights" in fluorescent lighting fixtures in order to reduce electrical consumption, heating temperatures have been lowered and cooling temperatures raised, and an all-out effort to level out electric use "peaks" is being made.

Our business office embarked on a new budgeting process last year which called for earlier revenue estimates, developing expenditure budget requests consistent with previously determined guidelines, and more adequate justifications for expenditure requests. The budget code has also been revised in order to make the data in the budget documents more meaningful for managerial decision-making. As a result of these new techniques for financial planning and management, the 1976-77 academic year concluded with a balanced budget.

In January, Barbara M. Rowe became director of personnel services-director of conferences. She has been responsible for establishing and improving a full program of personnel services including hiring practices, evaluation procedures, staff development, union relations, a manual of personnel policies, affirmative action, personnel records, fringe benefits and safety. Already noticeable progress has occurred in a number of these areas.

Also making invaluable contributions to campus maintenance operations is James A. Quinlan, the new physical plant director.

DEVELOPMENT

The development office, under the direction of Foster G. Ulrich, Jr. and his staff (which includes Clayton N. Pheasant, David A. Kreider, Charles R. Pollock and Debra L. Peterson, et al.), has performed well this past year. The Annual Support Fund totaled $190,329.08, more than $20,000 over its goal, and funds received from all private sources—friends, alumni, corporations, trustees, foundations, etc.—totaled $1,024,335. The grand total of support for the year, including federal and state funds, was $1,890,543.56.

This, of course, was the tail-end of our eight-year, $10.1-million campaign. Pledges have contributed to this outstanding total, but there is new money in this amount from alumni, trustees and friends. The campaign has generated its own momentum; but we who continue to remain interested in Juniata's future must maintain this momentum as we swing from the high point of campaign completion into the needs of Juniata's second century.

By the way, you will be pleased to learn that in a report on voluntary dollar support for private higher education for 1974-75, Juniata ranked first overall in total financial support among 17 selected Pennsylvania colleges and second in total alumni support.

Constituency relations: Members of the development office staff have been particularly active in three areas of constituency relations—the Church of the Brethren, alumni and public relations.

The Church-College Relations Council sponsored a very successful Spring Youth Rally on April 30 and May 1 for nearly 100 Church of the Brethren youth and their advisers. A number of persons have volunteered to be "communicators" for Juniata and the Church during 1977-78. Church mailings have been directed more accurately to those persons who are interested in having communications with the college. A variety of faculty and administration members were involved in teaching courses and leading seminars for church persons.

The Juniata Alumni Association had enthusiastic leadership at all levels in 1976-77. Richard L. Dodge '57, president of the Alumni Council, is to be commended for his tireless efforts on behalf of the Council and for his participation at many of the Annual Alumni Club meetings. The new Alumni Council President for 1977-78 is Frances Clemens Nyce '46 of Westminster, Md. George Fattman '58, editor of the Johnstown Tribune-Democrat, completed his term as an alumni trustee and added a new dimension to our overall publicity efforts. His beneficial influence, I am sure, will remain with us. He is succeeded by Kenneth J. Wenger '50 of Pittsburgh, dean of admissions and student aid at the University of Pittsburgh. Eighteen different alumni clubs were active, with a total of 23 different functions involving nearly 800 alumni, parents and friends. This represented about 13 percent of our alumni constituency. Reunion weekend activities were highlighted by the Annual Alumni Luncheon, at which Joseph R. Good '33 and Charles M. Bieber '41 received the Alumni Service and Achievement Awards, respectively. The 1976-77 year was also a great year for alumni travel, with the highlight being a tour of Russia involving 56 Juniatians.

As in the past, the Office of Public Relations has been effectively concerned with interpreting and promoting the college—i.e., its academic, developmental and extra-curricular programs—to the institution's several publics through the news media, through the various college publications and through personal contact. We have increased our steady flow of news releases reporting on events, achievements and developments at Juniata. More than 1300 general news releases were mailed, some 75 percent of which were "hometown" stories on the accomplishments of individual students, faculty and administration members and alumni. Progress has continued in our effort to upgrade all college publications, particularly those involved in attracting students. Special attention has been paid to readability and appropriateness of style for the specific audience(s) to which each publication is addressed.

In conclusion, may I say that Mrs. Binder and I continue to enjoy the warmth and hospitality extended to us by all members of the Juniata community and its constituencies. We have appreciated the cooperation of all and look forward to many years of dedicated service to such a fine institution.

Sincerely,

Frederick M. Binder
President

FOUNDERS CLUB MEMBERSHIP

Since its origin in 1939, the Founders Club has had as its special mission the development of leadership gifts which are essential to the advancement of the educational effectiveness of Juniata College. Its membership has grown to 941 during the 1976-77 college year. There are three categories of annual membership: the Thousand Club, open to those who contribute $1,000 or more; the Five Hundred Club, for those who contribute $500 to $999; and the Hundred Club, for those who contribute from $100 to $499.

The College recognizes with pride the significance of support generated by Founders Club membership. Indeed, the future effectiveness of Juniata depends upon leadership gifts of this magnitude. You are cordially invited to join these other Juniataans as members of the Founders Club, an organization held in special esteem by all who are associated with the College.

The Trustees, Faculty, Alumni, and Students
Juniata College

Hereby give public expression to their Profound Gratitude and Esteem for

Those who have established
Significant Endowments in Support of Teaching and Cultural Events

These endowments enable Juniata College to emphasize teaching as the essential element in liberal arts education. The quality of learning by Juniata students is advanced for all the years to come by these benefactions.

The Herbert A. and Marjorie F. Miller Endowment in Support of Teaching in Economics and Business Administration, 1971, and a second major gift dedicated to the purchase of books and journals in these two fields of study, 1976.

The Edith B. Wertz Endowment for Support of Cultural Events, 1972.

The J. Omar Good Visiting Distinguished Professorship of Evangelical Christianity, 1974.

Joseph R. and Jane S. Good Endowment in Support of Scholarships, 1973.

Dr. John C. and Elizabeth E. Baker Endowment in Support of Peace Studies, 1975.

The Board of Trustees of Juniata has approved a plan for the recognition of major endowment gifts. Recognizing that liberal arts education is dependent upon sound teaching, the Trustees seek to give special recognition to gifts of $100,000 or more. These may be direct gifts or gifts through bequests or gift annuities in which the actual amount available for support of teaching through endowment in perpetuity is of the amount stipulated. These major gifts are recognized here and also through presentation of special citations to the donors and through the erection of bronze plaques which are placed in the classroom areas occupied by the designated departments.

BEQUESTS—$120,177.03

The following bequests were made to Juniata during the 1976-77 fiscal year.

Robert C. Baker

A member of the Board of Trustees and major benefactor of the College, Mr. Baker bequeathed a gift of $50,000 to Juniata. Associated with the American Security and Trust Company of Washington, D.C. for more than 30 years, he was Chairman of the Board at the time of his death. In 1968 Mr. Baker received the honorary degree of doctor of laws from Juniata. He was a member of the Class of 1921.

Chalmers S. Brumbaugh

The estate of the late Chalmers S. Brumbaugh of Baltimore, Maryland provided a gift of $10,000 for the purpose of capitalizing the annual giving of he and his wife. A retired vice president and trust officer of the Mercantile-Safe Deposit and Trust Company, Mr. Brumbaugh graduated from Juniata in 1904, did graduate work at Harvard and received his law degree from the University of Maryland.

Lewis L. and Mabel H. Emmert

The College has received a gift of $14,000 from the estate of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Emmert of Huntingdon. The bequest will provide assistance to current operating expenses of the art and biology departments and to establish a scholarship fund. Lewis Emmert was the son of the late David Emmert, one of the first teachers and a trustee of Juniata College. The gift to the biology and art departments was made in memory of Mr. Emmert's father, who taught these subjects at Juniata.

Clara Mae Gray

A member of the Class of 1925, Juniata College, and the Ambler Church of the Brethren, Miss Gray provided an unrestricted bequest for the College in the amount of $2,000. This gift, along with others, is being used to develop the new Humanities Cluster.

P. M. "Mike" Snider

A bequest of $12,400 was provided for Juniata by the will of Mike Snider, former coach and director of athletics at the College. The gift will be used to establish a scholarship fund for needy and worthy students with an interest in athletics. A member of the Class of 1926, Mike had served the College for 38 years.

Christine Springer

An additional gift of $12,489 has been received from the estate of Christine Springer. These funds are to be used to create a restricted endowment fund, the income to be used for an annual scholarship for a young man or woman of good character. Miss Springer was a student at Juniata in 1904-05.

Elizabeth S. Steele

Juniata has received a gift of $26,657.50 from the estate of Elizabeth S. Steele of McVeytown, Pennsylvania. In accordance with Mrs. Steele's will, the bequest will be used to establish a memorial to her husband, Robert Steele, M.D. Dr. Steele was a pre-med student at Juniata before entering Jefferson Medical School. A scholarship fund is to be established to provide assistance for a student attending Juniata from the area surrounding McVeytown who is pursuing a career in medicine or science.

FRIENDS OF THE JUNIATA LIBRARY

The College's constituents who have a special interest in library development support the Friends of the Juniata Library organization. During 1976-77, persons named below made contributions to assure the continued strength of the general collection housed in Beechly Library and of the science collection located in the Myers Science Library of the Brumbaugh Science Center. Members listed are in one or more of the following three categories: contributors of cash; donors of books appraised for gift-in-kind credit; those who gave books but did not request appraisal. As the total collection approaches 200,000 volumes, the Friends' organization is invaluable to the assurance of sound quality and steady growth.

UTOPIA OR NIGHTMARE ???

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following address was delivered by Dr. J. Peter Trexler, professor of geology and the 1976 recipient of the Beachley Distinguished Professor Award, at the College's Annual Awards Convocation last spring. It launched, it is hoped, a new tradition at Juniata: an annual address at the Convocation by the current Beachley Professor. It is also hoped that the Beachley Address will appear in each year's Annual Report.

Dr. Trexler, an Allentown native, has been a member of the Juniata faculty since 1962. He was previously a research geologist with the U.S. Geological Survey, mapping and interpreting the stratigraphy, structure and geologic history of Pennsylvania's anthracite region. Six of his maps were published in 1968.

He received both the B.S. (1950) and M.S. degrees from Lehigh University and a Ph.D. in geology from the University of Michigan. For his work at Michigan, Dr. Trexler received the Ermine Cowles Case Student Award.

Having developed Juniata's geology department, Dr. Trexler was its first chairman. He continues in that position today.

The Beachley Award, providing a citation and a $1000 stipend, was established by Donovan R. Beachley, Sr. '21, a Juniata trustee, and Mr. and Mrs. Donovan R. Beachley, Jr. '47, all of Hagerstown, Md.

Dr. Trexler became the ninth Beachley Professor at the College's 1976 Commencement Ceremonies. Nominations are invited from students, faculty, alumni and trustees. Criteria used in selection include length of service to Juniata, contributions to one's department and the College as a whole, effectiveness as a teacher, contributions to student life and concern for student welfare, scholarly pursuits and effectiveness, and service beyond the campus.

Beginning with the 1977 Award, the stipend for the Beachley Professor will be $1500.

Dr. J. Peter Trexler

My remarks are primarily for the students—others can listen if they wish.

I want to thank the English Department—I lifted part of my title from one of its course listings for next year—a course that looks very intriguing.

I will promise right now that this will not be a scholarly, academic talk—nor will it be science fiction. At least, it is not meant to be. I will, as a professor, profess some of my ideas; however, in the main, I am simply going to make some observations, pertinent and impertinent. Some of what I say will be trite, but perhaps still worth saying, and some will be said with tongue in cheek.

The opinions given are mine, and do not necessarily represent those of the management.

My data and figures are probably not accurate. They are averages of the wealth of conflicting "facts" and data that are published daily.

I must confess, I am here under protest. I am a geology professor, well trained to bore students with all sorts of imposing facts about our earth. I am not trained to bore students at a prize award ceremony. However, I'll probably succeed.

I understand that I am here as a penalty for my having won the Beachley Award last year. Again, I protest. It hasn't passed me by that there were seven previous winners. I've been taught to wait my turn, and that shouldn't come for eight more years!

However, there is one possible compensation in this assignment. You all know that along with the honor of the Beachley Award there is a very generous check. So, next time someone asks me to speak—if there is a next time—I'll simply say, "Last time I got $1000 for a twenty-minute speech." I'll see what happens.

Today is a day for celebration, and rightly so. We are giving all sorts of prizes for all sorts of accomplishments. It's a chance to relive the past, to honor the doers, and to take pride in our achievements. We, the faculty, can reflect on your accomplishments and take deep pride in our role in molding you in our images. And you, the students, can take pride in having maintained your individuality and in having learned a significant amount in spite of harassment by faculty. Spring is here, the rites of spring are being observed, and soon many of you will be leaving this quiet, remote campus for a variety of experiences. It is an exciting time as you anticipate the future, and a nostalgic time as you realize that a part of your life is almost past.

I wish I could add to the festivities—that I could give you a rousing pep talk, a picture of a Utopian future in which, armed with a bachelor's degree and a willingness to work, prosperity, happiness, and success are assured. But, in all honesty, I can't.

I stand here before you dressed in black. I don't know why most academic gowns are black. Perhaps it is symbolic, to show the seriousness of learning and the responsibility that comes with an education; perhaps it is simply because black doesn't show the dirt. The hoods add some color, but in general the effect is somber. I wish I could break through this image in a dramatic way, and point to a bright, exciting future. Peter Muhlenberg, a Lutheran minister for whom a rival institution in eastern Pennsylvania was named, was able to do this. In 1775 he preached a fiery sermon on the necessity to fight for one's God-given rights. Concluding with a shout that "there is a time to pray, and a time to fight, and now is a time to fight," he ripped off his clerical gown to stand before his congregation in the colorful uniform of an officer in the Continental Army. His action, dramatic if un-Brethrenlike, pointed to a future that was exciting. Though uncertain, the potential rewards were great: the opportunity to make a new nation and to shape a whole new way of life.

Things today are not so simple. My World War II uniform doesn't fit me anymore, and it was somber navy-blue anyway. I may feel rebellious, but I don't really have a cause. And any action I would attempt to take would become hopelessly ensnared in red tape.

The other day I was doing the family shopping. I saw that cauliflower was $1.39 per head. I love cauliflower and cheese, but at that price, I see it disappearing from my future diet along with roast beef, lamb chops, shrimp cocktails, lobster tails, and other things I very easily learned to like in the past. I hearkened back, that day in the market, to the days 25 years ago, when I was fresh out of college and newly married. Cauliflower was about 19¢ per head, hamburger 35¢ per pound, toilet paper 5¢ per roll. Our first car cost us about $950, gasoline was 21¢ per gallon, and our rather spacious, four-room apartment (with heat, water, stove and refrigerator) was $65 per month. We could live luxuriously; for after all, with a B.A. degree in geology I was able to command the fabulous salary of $3200 per year!

And then I thought, what will the next 25 years bring? What will life be like in the year 2000? And what control will I have over it?

These questions are particularly pertinent to you.

I'll be an old man in the year 2000—over 70, God willing I live that long. You'll be in your 40s, at the height of your powers and influence. What will the world be like? And what will you be able to do about it?

I have here, under my robe, not an officer's uniform but a crystal ball. It's small, but it is a bona fide crystal ball, made magically out of rose quartz. But, good grief, when I look inside it's not much help—it's cloudy, even murky. I see no clear picture at all. It's also streaked with pink and red—does this mean a rosy future? A communist take-over? Or is the red a portent of blood and violence? I can't tell—my crystal ball has failed me.

So, I must turn to an alternative. My liberal arts background, as well as my love of history and my vast experience teaching Human Existence-Historical, has taught me that in order to predict the future we must understand the past, and use it as an example.

Okay, that sounds logical. Even scientific. Let's try it. What has happened in this century that might give us a clue to the next?

The changes in the last 100 years have been more profound than in all previous human experience. In 1900 most travel was still by horseback or horse and wagon. The automobile was a new invention, antibiotics were unknown. Airplanes, rockets, television, the hydrogen bomb, stereo, bacterial warfare, cloverleaves, electric can openers, and other commonplace conveniences of modern life were yet to be invented. Most people still lived on the farm (there were only 1½ billion people in the world) and most of them were firmly controlled by the British Empire, upon which the sun never set. Built upon the solid foundations of the industrial and social revolutions of the 19th Century, change came rapidly. The rate of change and its role in the lives of all people accelerated exponentially during the 20th Century. It is easy to chronicle the advances of the past century which led to a standard of living never before attained. We can expect to live longer, healthier, more prosperous lives. This expectation of bigger and better things has become as American as motherhood and apple pie.

In the late 1960's however, it became apparent that not all the changes leading to greater affluence were beneficial. We recognized that there were some losses. There was a price tag on modern living. Our natural environment was threatened by industrial expansion. Things cost more. The rest of the world wanted a share of prosperity, and their autonomy in achieving it. We became more frenetic as the rate of change speeded up—the mobility of people, migrating to higher-paying jobs, broke up families and made communities the dwelling places of transients. Relationships became more impersonal, money was the object of the game, and many traditional institutions were threatened and weakened by the change. Change didn't always mean progress—it could mean instability and social, economic and political problems.

We were thinking along the lines of the immortal Hager the Horrible, Viking scourge of the comic sheets, when he pondered:

"the world is changing so fast, I can't keep up. Just think, in recent years we have seen the invention of the crossbow, the two-handed sword, the catapult, the rack, the dungeon, the battering ram, not to mention the discovery of witchcraft, alchemy, and the two-headed axe—and yet, I wonder—are people any happier?"

But faith in a future Utopia was not entirely weakened. Only confidence in the methods for achieving it through private enterprise was weakened. Most people, looking through rose-colored glasses shaped like dollar signs, thought that bigger and better government would remove the inequities, control our progress, and direct us unflinchingly towards Utopia. But somehow or other we didn't necessarily get better or more responsive government. We just got bigger and bigger government, to a point where one in every six people now employed in this country is working directly for the government—federal, state or local. No wonder we have high taxes and inflation—it takes the taxes of five working Americans to pay the salary of the sixth. We all, of course, are working indirectly for the government through our taxes. Government consumes about 38% of the gross national product.

Look at it another way: we have one government servant working for every five other job holders. Boy, should we have service in this country! But do we get it? Size and money breed power, and our massive, impersonal government is all-powerful today, to a point where it feels like the citizens serve it rather than the proper way around.

And now, in 1977, we reach another milestone. For the first time in our history, in peacetime and in relative prosperity, an American President has told us that things may not get continually better and better on into the indefinite future. President Carter's thesis is that, measured in material goods, we in the United States may have to expect less in our future. This is because there are more people expecting more things, natural resources are being depleted, other nations are insisting on their share, and everything costs more. And money does not grow on trees, any more than do new supplies of petroleum, natural gas, copper, bauxite or uranium. Even things that do grow on trees cost more—try finding a nickel cup of coffee today. Your search will be as long as that of Diogenes' looking for an honest man.

Perhaps big government itself is playing a role in slowing progress. Bureaucracy has established all sorts of controls on the private sector, some necessary, some detrimental. As an example of government influence, in 1976 private manufacturers paid out $50 billion for new plants and equipment—a large but necessary expenditure to increase productivity and keep prices competitive. Stockholders, who provide business with the funds necessary for development, got paid $35 billion for the use of their money. Big time financing. But get this—the cost to business to comply with federal paperwork requirements was $40 billion, and this cost will soon exceed the amount spent in capital expansion. And a government document was my source for this information.

The squeeze today is mainly on the middle class, those American families earning between $10,000 and $30,000 per year and making up about 65% of the families in the country. Through direct and indirect taxation, they support the bulk of the government programs while, as self-supporting individuals, they receive the fewest benefits.

You are graduating at the beginning of what may be a new era in American history, a time when we can expect less rather than more in the way of material goods, a time of diminishing affluence rather than steadily increasing prosperity.

Economic statistics and pronouncements are varied and confusing. My economic and political reconstruction may be as murky as my crystal ball. Nonetheless, based on recent trends, I will make the following specific predictions, hoping that some will be wrong.

(a) By the year 2000 there will be about 7 billion people in the world, almost double the present figure. That sounds drastic, almost overwhelming. However, this is a conservative growth figure. This is also an optimistic prediction, in that only a major nuclear war, new disease, or other catastrophe of worldwide proportions will lower the number substantially. I hope for this population figure. The alternative is widespread, unnatural death, and who among us wants that?

(b) I do not think there will be a nuclear holocaust or other major disaster of that type. Health services will continue to improve on a world-wide basis. Life expectancy will increase, as will the level of health.

(c) By the year 2000 we may be deficient of the oil, natural gas, and some metallic raw materials necessary to maintain an increasing population and standard of living. Conservation practices and substitute materials will ease the problem somewhat. Incentives to the oil industry would stimulate exploration. But resources are finite, the easy-to-find and cheap-to-extract deposits are going, and the end of many traditional sources of raw materials is unfortunately in sight—perhaps by 2000, perhaps not until a few decades later.

(d) Countries with natural resources will hold greater international political clout.

(e) Improvements in agriculture will be offset partially by spiraling costs of fertilizer and pesticides. A doubled population will lead to increased world hunger.

(f) Changes within nations and internationally will tend to increase differences in living standards rather than to bring us all to a uniform but comfortable level. There are not enough resources to bring all citizens of the world to our standard. Shall they continue to remain relatively poor? Or are we willing to become poor?

(g) Social and political tensions will increase in the world.

(h) Inflation will continue. In 2000, things might easily cost three or four times as much as they do now. Thus, the trend towards greater automation will continue. Leisure time will increase, but we'll have less real spending power with which to enjoy it. Unemployment will also increase.

(i) The increase in population and mobility will mean that people will impinge upon people to a much greater degree. This will be an increasing irritant.

(j) With all these disruptive forces, government will continue to grow, to pervade all aspects of life, and to control to a steadily greater degree the actions of individuals and private companies.

(k) In reaction to all this, violence will reach levels unprecedented for so-called peacetime. Terrorist groups, perhaps using the technology of nuclear or biological warfare, will manipulate decisions in international politics. Crime will rise. And wars, probably on the local or conventional level, will increase. Instability, uncertainty and insecurity will be the tone of the time.

I sound Malthusian. Man's history has been a search for a higher level of civilization, a more humane society. What success we have won has come only through a long struggle and many setbacks. Man can be very animalistic. Scrape off the thin veneer of civilization, and a brutal, aggressive barbarian may appear. After all these centuries in search of Utopia, is our destiny to be a new dark age? A new barbarianism? A nightmare? Many of the current signs seem to point that way.

I've made some predictions. Harsh as they seem, they are based on history, present trends, and a knowledge of finite natural resources and of human nature. Let's face it, we've a real problem—or a real challenge, if you look at it the way I hope you will.

Before the year 1000 man stopped building permanent buildings, creating works of art, or doing anything for the future. There was a widespread belief that the world would end in the year 1000. It didn't.

Today it looks as though the world as we know it may cease to exist in the foreseeable future. Are you to be characters in a Greek tragedy, in the hands of fate, unable to do anything to escape? Is a gloomy future inevitable? Is the year 2000 Doomsday?

I don't think so, despite my predictions.

I believe that to be forewarned is to be forearmed.

I believe that, knowing history, mistakes can be avoided and remedied.

I believe in the constructive power of man.

You can, to a large extent, control your own destiny. To paraphrase a statement of Winston Churchill made during World War II, "Let us not call these darker days. Rather, call them sterner days, and when we win through, the glory will be all the more."

Your future depends on you—on how you attack the problems that threaten our nation and civilization, and on how you look at life.

What can you do about it? A number of things:

1. Never underestimate yourself. Individuals can make a difference. Speak up, express your views, get involved. Never underestimate the power of a determined person. You can, to a surprising extent, control your own destiny and the destiny of others—if you are strong-willed.

2. Take an interest in all sorts of events: political, social, economic. Vote. Get active in civic and social affairs. In this way your voice can be heard and be joined by others. The only way government, big business or big labor can be swayed is by a groundswell of public opinion.

3. Keep informed. Get information from a variety of sources—all sources of news today seem to emphasize some particular bias (as did I today).

4. Change necessitates constant study to keep abreast of your field, your profession or career. I am not speaking about graduate school. I mean that all through life you will need to study, in an informal or organized way, to keep up with changes in your field. New data, methods and ideas are being developed at an unprecedented rate. Continuing education on an individual basis is necessary if you are not to become outmoded.

5. Be civilized. Take an active, personal concern in your fellows. It is easy to be charitable in an impersonal way, to send a check through the mail. But everybody needs attention, someone to show an interest. Much of the tension of the world could be diffused if we took the time and effort to show consideration and interest in others, to care for people, to be cheerful and friendly and genuinely interested rather than gruff and easy to anger. It sounds pollyanna-ish, but a smile and a cheerful greeting can hearten someone else immensely. If people are going to impinge on people at a greater rate, let's do our best to make it pleasant, rather than an irritant.

Civilization is not only art, literature or buildings. It is measured by how we treat each other. Let's hold out for a civilized relationship—the alternative is a new barbarianism.

6. Live a life of service, no matter what your profession.

7. Keep your sense of humor. Develop one, if you don't have one. Don't take yourself too seriously.

8. Buy stock in coal companies, sweater manufacturing companies, bicycle manufacturing companies.

9. Don't expect too much. We've been conditioned to expect health, wealth and continual happiness as a right. Lucy, in Peanuts, when told that life has its ups and downs, replied that all she wanted were ups, upper ups, and uppermost ups. That's impossible. Develop a realistic level of expectation.

10. Develop a variety of interests to make life full and rewarding. Don't restrict yourself. Don't limit yourself to the "in" thing, conforming only to the interests of your peer group. Develop areas of study, hobbies and sports that are personal, simple and individualized, rather than based on expensive elaborate equipment.

11. Continually strengthen a sense of values to guide you, a code of ethics and beliefs. Don't rely on materialism to give you what you want out of life. Have something solid to fall back on when things fail you. A materialistic outlook is very likely to lead to frustration as shortages develop and costs spiral.

12. Keep faith in the future and in the ability of man to overcome problems and conquer challenges. Who knows, there might be a future Edison among your generation who will solve the energy problem, or a future Lincoln who will clearly see ways to solve pressing social issues. Or, more likely, teams of people—closely coordinated, with vision, idealism and energy—may accomplish these goals, leading humanity into a future which, if not perfect, will be far brighter than that which I earlier projected. Knowing the adaptability and intelligence of man, and the potential of your generation, I'll bet on this—our future is at stake.

13. In all the turmoil of the future, be yourself. Do what you do best. Contribute in the way you best can. Have self confidence and the strength of conviction to believe in yourself. As Polonius said, "To thine own self be true." Respect yourself and live in such a way that no matter what the future brings, you can hold your head high and be proud.
